AP624 Urban Apologetics (1 credit)

Dr. Carl Ellis, Jr. | Room 5

Jan 30–Feb 2, Tues–Fri, 9:00 AM–12:15 PM

An analysis of today's competing value systems and worldviews including an examination of various social visions. This course explores the hidden forces behind cultural conflict and suggests biblical ways to address it. The emphasis is on the universal influences which give rise to inequality, using the African American experience as a case study. Included in this course are new biblically based categories and concepts that can facilitate the emergence of new movements to address today's cultural confusion.

- This course can be used to fulfill the 1-credit Missions elective requirement for PT511.
- Prerequisite: none

HT652 The Life and Thought of Theodore Beza (1 credit)

Dr. David Noe | Room 4

Jan 16–19, Tues–Fri, 1:15–4:30 PM

This course is an introduction to the life and work of French Reformer Theodore Beza, 1519–1605. We will examine in brief Beza's education prior to conversion, his time at Lausanne, and finally his long service in Geneva as Calvin's successor in the company of pastors. Readings will be drawn from primary sources, as well as works by Scott Manetsch, Kirk Summers, and the instructor.

- Prerequisite: none

PT627 Missions in Europe (1 credit)

Rev. David Stoddard | Room 4

Jan 30–Feb 2, Tues–Fri, 1:15–4:30 PM

What can the worldwide church learn about evangelism and church-planting from the European church? Europe was the first continent to be Christianized, the first to be de-Christianized and hopefully the first to be re-Christianized. This course explores the key political, social, economic, and religious influences affecting Europe's church context today. Particular attention is given to current trends in missions to Europe and best practices for church-planting. The aim of this course is not just to educate students about Europe, but to equip them to apply lessons learned to evangelism and church-planting in their own local church context.

- This course can be used to fulfill the 1-credit Missions elective requirement for PT511.
- Prerequisite: none
